CIS Group and Evertz Strengthen Live Sports Production in Brazil with Advanced Replay Deployment for Multivideo Produções

São Paulo, March 24th, 2026 – CIS Group, a provider of media and broadcast technology solutions, in partnership with Evertz, has successfully deployed an advanced replay solution comprising five systems for Multivideo Produções in Brazil. The project reinforces Multivideo’s commitment to innovation, improves operational efficiency, and elevates the quality of live sports productions across mobile broadcast environments.

Multivideo Produções is a Brazilian company headquartered in São Paulo, Brazil, with international operations, specializing in live sports production and mobile unit (OB van) services. With a strong presence at major sporting events, the company is involved in the production and broadcast of high-profile competitions and brands such as the World Surf League (WSL), Formula 1 in Brazil, the Rio Open, the National Football League (NFL), the London 2012 Olympic Games, and the Brazilian Championship (Serie A), among other highly relevant projects. Recognized for the technical excellence of its productions, Multivideo continuously invests in advanced broadcast technologies to meet increasingly demanding and dynamic production environments.

As part of its ongoing evolution, Multivideo sought a replay solution that combined reliability, high performance, and cost efficiency for OB van operations. Many solutions available on the market presented challenges such as high costs, operational complexity, or insufficient reliability. These are critical factors in live sports broadcasting, where failures are not an option.

“Live sports production leaves no room for compromise,” said Felipe Andrade, VP of Sales at CIS Group. “The challenge is finding solutions that balance performance, reliability, and operational simplicity, especially in mobile environments. Our role was to design and deploy a replay workflow that fits Multivideo’s operational reality today, while remaining flexible for future growth.”

The Evertz DC-ONE-SE replay system proved to be the ideal solution, delivering the proven DreamCatcher™ replay technology in a compact and cost-effective format. Designed for mobile and regional productions, the DC-ONE-SE supports continuous multichannel recording, high-quality slow-motion replay, fast clip creation, and an intuitive user interface that enables efficient operation even with smaller production teams. The creation of playlists in real time and split-screen playout enable decisive moments to be identified and replayed with exceptional speed.

Enhanced by Motion+, Evertz's AI-based technology, the DC-ONE-SE further improves super slow-motion replay quality, enhancing the visual storytelling of fast-paced sports content.

"In live sports production, every decision must be fast and precise. We were looking for a replay solution that was reliable, easy to operate, and that would give us complete confidence during the game. This implementation allows us to work more efficiently on a daily basis and focus on what truly matters: telling the story of the sport effectively for the audience," says Sergio Mattoso, Partner and Director of Multivideo Produções.

As a result, Multivideo delivers an even more engaging sports narrative to its clients, with replays that help explain the game as it unfolds. At the same time, the project reinforces CIS Group's role as a trusted systems integrator, delivering scalable and reliable broadcast solutions that help production companies elevate the quality and impact of their live content.
